Failed Me.

How well I can remember, before I was a Christian woman, how my dear mother knelt by my side and prayed for my salvation." "Last night," continued Miss Willard, "when I met my mother at the depot surrounded by about sixty noble temperance ladies from the West, my heart leaped for joy." Miss Willard, while delivering this short speech, almost broke down, and, indeed, there was scarcely a dry eye to be seen in the whole congregation.

At this point the executive committee, which met yesterday, submitted a report of their labors.

which met yesterday, submitted a report of their labors.

The president stated that she had written a letter to Mrs. Thompson, of Hillsboro, Ohio, inviting her to be present at the con-vention, and received a reply from that lady that she could not come.

She then again telegraphed her nuless she did come the convention would not be held. Mrs. Thompson the report of the

she did come the convention would not be held. Mrs. Thompson thereupon telegraphed the following: "Will arrive in Washington to-morrow, Thursday."

The following are the States represented in the convention: Maryland, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Arkansas, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Virginia, West Virginia, South Carolina, Kentucky, Dakota, all the Middle and New England States and the District of Columbia.

At 11:10 Miss Willard began her address.

profession, the bigotry of whose 'regular school' and the tyranny of whose 'etiquette' is one of the most salient reminders of the lark ages that afflicts the nineteenth century. "If we read the London Laucet, that highest of authorities in medicine, we should find it taking sides with us on the should find it taking sides with us on the question of alcoholic medication, and in the last number of the Popular Science Monthly occur the following remarkable statements worthy of our earnest thought, and by us to be brought before the people:

"Drugs only change the form of the disease by tarning a confirmed surfeithabit into a still more obstinate and less commutable alcohol habit; the vile mixtures sold under the name of tonic bitters have never benefited anybody but their proprietors and the rumsellers, to whose army of victims the patent medicine dispensaries serve as so many recruiting of-

Third—In some States it may be deemed best to make constitutional and statutory prohibition the main issues, and woman's vote subsidiary. This will be for the leaders in each State to determine. While at first our Southern friends may hold aloof from the latter movement, and should not be prematurely urged to join it, a few more defeats like that in North Carolina (resulting from the vote of ignorant colored Republicans under party leadership), may perhaps lead them to apply to the ballot an educational prerequisite, and summon to their aid in this non-sectional and prohibitory party of which I speak, their mothers, wives, and daughters.

Fourth—The men who will naturally unite in this party will also strongly support civil-service reform, anti-monopoly and anti-Mormon legislation, and commit the organization heartily to the cause of national and compulsory education. The best elements of the disintegrating parties of the past will gravitate toward this; from their work. This resolution by Senator adopted without objection.

past will gravitate toward this; from their worn-out hulls the sound timbers will help make up our life-rafts.

Very soon this new "party of great moral ideas" will hold the balance of power. When we see a David Davis or a Mahone determining which of two existing parties shall aspire to national ascendancy, when we review the record of the Greenbackers in and out of Congress, the prediction should not seem to us absurd that ere long our new party will hold the balance of power. In conclusion, Miss Willard paid a glowing tribute to the memory of the late President Garfield.

At the conclusion of Miss Willard's address the convention adjourned, and the

This is a fortunate thing for Mr. H. J. Ramsdell, appointed Register of Wills, and other appointments made by the late Presi-dent Garfield, which have not as yet been forwarded to the Senate for confirmation. If President Arthur does not send their names in during the present extra session, they will hold over and stand a fair chance of being undisturbed.

"The Critic's" Day. This was practically The CRITIC's day in the Senate, matters forshadowed pre-viously in this wide-awake journal develop-ing in rapid succession. In the first place, after the excitement over the arrival of the after the excitement over the arrival of the President's private secretary with a batch of unimportant nominations had subsided, Senator Ransom, as THE CRITIC predicted several days ago, arose and offered a resolu-tion requesting that the sub Committee on Commerce, appointed by the last Congress to examine plans for front, be continued and authorized to proceed with their work. This resolution was adopted without objection.

THE CRITIC was again corroborated by the introduction of a resolution by Senator Butler calling on the Commissioner of Agriculture to explain why the annual report of his Department for 1880 has not been printed and is not yet ready for distribution.

Senator Beck amended the resolution, demanding a further explanation why 10,000 copies of the report for 1879 ordered to be printed were not yet ready for distribution. This, as formerly stated in THE CRITIC, is

TENEMENT HOUSE HORROR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—A fire this morning in West Sixteenth street, in a tenement house, shows the difficulties surrounding tenement life. A three-story frame tenement built in a court surrounded by sixtery brick tenements, was packed with poor people.

poor people.

J. Parkerson and wife, Annie, daughter Annie, aged 9, and Queenie, a baby, lived on the third floor. The only way to get up or down to the third floor was by wooden stairs outside of the house. While the Parkersons were in bed at 6 a. m. the house was set on fire by a drunken inmate on the lower floor upsetting a lamp.

When the Parkersons were awakened by the smoke the whole lower portion of the house was destroyed. The outside stairway burned down and there was no means of escape except through the window down into a narrow space between the burning house and a tall tenement adjoining, the walls of which were red het and the pavement below was covered with embers.

Parkerson threw two bed ticks down to break the fall, and before they could burn up dropped his wife down, and then his daughter Annie; then took the baby in his arms and hung out of the window, preparing to drop with it.

The window-sill burned off and he fell, striking his head against the hot brick wall opposite with such force as to knock him senseless. The baby fell and struck her head against the same wall, and fractured her skull and had her cheek burned off anginst the hot bricks.

When Parkerson and the baby reached the bed-tick the tick was on fire and both being unconscious, Mrs. Parkerson and her daughter Annie, had to draw them out through the alley filled with burning wood, and when they reached the street all four were aflame, their clothes having ignited, and when they reached the street all four and when they reached the street all four were aflame, their clothes having ignited, and mother and daughter became unconand mother and daughter became uncon-scious from exhaustion.

All were taken to the hospital. The frame building had been condemned by the building department three years ago and was ordered torn down, but the landlord had influence and contrived to have it re-main and be packed with tenants.

Au Ex-Governor on Trial for Murder.

NAPOLEON, O., Oct. 26.—The trial of B. K. Scott, ex-Governor of South Carolina, for the murder of young Drury, at Progress, last Christmas, was begun to-day. A jury has been secured without trouble, and the testimony will occupy but a few hours. Gen. Scott boarded at the Miller House with his son Arkie, a boy of 17. The latter was out on Christmas eve and his father went in search of him. The boy had been drunk, and, wishing to avoid returning home, had gone to bed with Drury, in the latter's room, over the drug store. Gen. Scott went to the drug store and endeavored to reach the room, when Drury seems to have interfered and was shot on the stairway. The father says that Drury made a motion as if to draw a weapon and he fired in self-defense. The accused is under $35,000 bail. An Ex-Governor on Trial for Murder

Very Likely a British Romance. London, Oct. 26.—The English press says that the flight of some of Parnell's lieutenants has convinced many of the Irishmen that some of those who have talked loudest have not been honest. Some of the leaders were seeking government positions for their friends, and others were negotiating for government jobs as the price of silence. An official investigation shows, it is said, corruption everywhere among the leaders of the Land League.
